

Transcript - 03-03-23_112628

Summary:

At last the man could not resist any longer and called for his companion again. The companion came back and took out a knife. The man called out, "My friend!" but the companion just looked at him with a cold expression.

Transcript:

unexpectedly found a large piece of gold. The man hesitated again and again, but still called for his companion in the distance. The companion took out the lighter and started burning the gold.